During the month of March, a group of boy scouts contacted us as they wanted to visit the cave and learn about the underground environments, their benefits and their dangers. On March 26 we gave a workshop outside the cave where we talked about speleology, biospeleology, cave formations, speleothems, subterranean animals as well as the dangers of entering these places without an expert.

The second part of the workshop took place inside the cave to put into practice what was learned in the first workshop. The tour lasted 3 hours and we visited all the rooms of the cave.

Figure 1. Boys scouts before entering Santa Martha Cave all geared up.
Figure 2. Tour to and inside the cave with the Boys Scouts.